BE BIG YEAR IN FOOT-BALL

All Signs Point to a Most Excellent Season.

WILL BE LESS DANGEROUS

New Rules Eliminate Element of Danger and Bring About More Open Play-Personnel of the Big Teams.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

NEW YORK, Sept. 10.—The foot-ball senson is with us, and at every college throughout the land bands of stalwart young athletes are enthusiastically undergoing initiation into the mysteries of rush, tackle, drop kick and punt with a determination in the heart of each to do all in his, power to bring the championship to alma mater.

Unless all signs fail, it will be a great year in the annals of foot-ball. Preliminary work shows that all ithe big universities have plenty of first-class material and the result should be evenly matched teams and eracking good games. Much interest centers in the new rules, which have been framed with an idea of eliminating as far as possible the element of danger of serious injury and to bring about more open play. Although there will be more end runs under the new rules and great opportunity for involved plays, it is the general opinion that coaches will go slow on trick plays and teach straight foot-ball first.

Among the well known players who will instruct the collegians in the game this year are William Cransson at Harvard, George B. Chadwick at Yale, Arthur R. T. Hillebrand at Princeton Carl Williams at Pennsylvania, Raymond Morley at Columbia, W. J. Warner at Cornell. In the West "Hurryup" Yost will be at Michigan, Staff at Chicago. Chaimers at Iowa. Woodruff, the forme Pennsylvania coach, at Illinois, and "Andy" O'Dea at Wisconsib.

A peculiarity that has been noted this year among the followers of foot-ball is that the majority of the teams, judging from statistics computed from thirty-five of the leading elevens of the country, will be captained by men in the line. Princeton will be led by a guard, De Witt; Yale by an end, Rafferty; Cornell by a guard, Hunt; Pennsylvania by an end, Metzger, and West Point by an end, Farnsworth.

Yale, who wen the championship last year, will have an exceptionally strong eleven this year. She loses only four of the giants who wen for her last season. They are Holt, who played at center; Gess, guard; Captain Chadwick, halfback, and Glass, guard. This is certainly a hard quartette to replace, but Captain Rafferty and Coach Chadwick feel sure the trick will be turned. For ends Yale has Captain Rafferly, T. L. Shevlin, W. V. Stillman, G. B. Ward and J. A. Moorhead to pick from. Among the men who showed up well at tackle last year are J. J. Hogan, R. P. Kinney, L. F. Bissell, J. R. Bloomer and H. M. Turner.

J. R. Bloomer and H. M. Turner.
Yale had many cracking good substitutes last year, who will be formidable candidates this fail. Among these men are J. G. George, F. V. Jackson, Bernard Cartwright, S. S. Turner, J. E. Owsley, A. W. Allen, J. C. Preston and W. B. Eoper. Then there are the two promising players of the old freshman team, J. Leavenworth and L. Hovt. Leavenworth and L. Hoyt.

Carl Marshall will be at the head of Hurvard's foot-ball warriors this season. He will be minus the services of the great trio of backs, Kernan, Putnam and Graydon, but Carl and Andy Marshall, Bowditch, Shea, Sugden, Knowlton and Mills will be on hand, a fine nucleus for a winning team.

places Hanley, captain and full-last year's Boston Latin School of last year's Boston Latin School en, is a poyerful man and should a wide swath when he dons his togs, ley, substitute halfback last year, is her premising candidate. Schoolkopf, old Cornell fullback, is also eligible year. He is known as one of the fullbacks Cornell ever had, and it id not be surprising if he is made ack on Harvard, ier candidates for full are Harrison Meier, both of whom played on the last fail. Lindsay, Leatherbee and C. C. Foster are other likely candifor halfback.

ddition to these men Grill and the two famous tackles of last Exeter eleven, are expected to college this fall, and Harry Le at left guard left vacant by big Barnard last year. Carrick and White, of last year's freshman eleven, and Wilder and Hovey, of last year's scrub team, are the most promising candidates. Matthews, the colored player, will again be available Princeton's main reliance will be on Captain De Witt. A team of De Witts would be unbeatable, but there is already a complaint from the Jerseyltes that there is a lack of weight in the new-comers at Old Nassau, and the fear is expressed that there will be difficulty in filling the gaps in the eleven with first-class material. Among the old men on hand are Davis, Kafer, Burke, Bradley Rafferty, Barney and Walker. The first game will be played with Swarthmore at Frinceton, September 30th.

Columbia starts out with every prospeof having a fine team. Of last year's players who are still in college and will join the practice squad are J. R. Fisher, full back; W. C. Duell, tackle: F. H. Duden, centre; D. H. Brown, tackle; R. S. Smith, half back; R. S. Stangland, guard, and I. Tomlinson, guard. All of these men have promised Manager H. A. Fisher and Captain Smith that they will try for the term waste this sections.

Fisher and Captain Smith that they will try for the team again this season. Ray Moriey, the famous half back, will coach the team, and in R. S. Smith the New Yorkers have a field captain who is energetic, ambitious and a fine player. Three promising new men are John S. Thorp, a 105-pound youth, who played with "Sandy" Hunt will captain Cornell's team, and W. J. Warner will do the coaching. The Ithacans were somewhat downcast when the announcement was made that Al. Brewster would not be on the cleven this year. The disappointment was somewhat tempered when F. M. Sears announced his intention of trying for a place on the 'Varsity team. Sears is the best runner who ever competed for Cornell, and as a freshman won the 220 yard event at the intercollegiate games and has twice defoated Pennsylvania's flectest men in both the 220 and 100 yard dashes. He has a magnificent 100 yard dashes. He has a magnificen physique, and weighs over 170 pounds.

HIGHBALL TO

Great Colt to Be Trained for the Big Event.

MET AT THE FARO TABLE

How Sheftell, the Millionaire, and May the Trainer, Became Partners-The Achievements of Maud S. Sporting Gossip.

By MANHATTAN.

NEW YORK, September 19,-The West naving sent some mighty good horses aflanding a good many of the mat that, the East intends to reach for the biggest of the western plums next year. All of which means that Highball, conceded to be the pick of the eastern two-year-olds, with the possible exception of Hamburg Belle, intends to make the strongest kind of a bid for the American Derby of 1904, "Bud" May, trainer of the fine little coit, makes no secret of the fact that from this time on he is after the fat Chicago prize and that Highball will be trained, raced and wintered with this end in view. He will not start again until spring, though it is practically certain he has more than one reasonably fat purse at his mercy. It a hard telling what a two-year-old will do means that Highball, conceded to be the hard telling what a two-year-old will do as a three-year-old, but if Highball comes as a three-year-on, but I highest comes anywhere noar to racing in his present form next year it is going to take a first class racehorse to keep him from putting the Chicago Derby to his credit.

Speaking of Highball brings to mind a very pretty story as to how his owner, W. M. Scheftell and "Bud" May, as trainer, foregathered. It all happened at Canfield's last year, so the story goes. May came on from Kentucky with a string of horses and dropped into Canfield's while a rather pleasant session was in progress at the fare layout. Among those present was Mr Schoffell, who had little luck in calling the turn. His supply of ready money had the turn, His supply or ready money had bout given out, and he was about to leave the table when May said, in his characteristic Kentucky drawl:

"Here, take $500 and try it again. Yez are too game to stay down long." Scheftell had lost successively for a half hour, and only capitulated at the last wall. May had been winning right slong, and the pile of blues he had stacked about him would have excited the cupidity of a saint. To the surprise of all his fellow players Scheffell had run his $500 into $3,500 in less time than it takes to tell it. An adjourn-ment to the restaurant followed, and Scheftell inquired of May as to who he might be, and May in return asked some-thing pertinent as to the identity of the millionaire, for the men had never seen one another before meeting at the fare bank.

"You are so clover that I think I'll take a chance at the horse racing business," declared Scheffell, and before the dawn a racing partnership between Mr. Scheffell and May had been consumated. May was commissioned to go back to Kentucky and get together the best youngsters he could find, Among those he got were Highball. Pulsus and Wotan, so it can be seen he came pretty near following instructions. came pretty near following instructions. Scheftell now holds Highball at $50,000, and is not anxious to sell.

and is not anxious to sell.

All hope of a meeting between Waterboy and McChesney this season is over. Haggin's horse will only race for the Brighton Cup, for which big Mac is not eligible. There is a suspicion abrond that the owner of Waterboy doesn't like McChesney's game, and that there has been some side-stepping. In any ovent, the dietile of the championship will remain open. It seems now as though Waterboy will have things his own way for the Brighton Cup unless Igniter, winner of the Champion Stakes, who is pointed for the race, is able to give him an argument.

Harness horse men are wondering if there is to be any further lowering of the trotting record this season. No surprise will be caused if there is. With Lou Dilion and Major Delmar both out for it, there is no teilling what may happen. Delmar will make a try to go under two minutes at the Empire City track Thursday if weather conditions are suitable. The track is lightning fast, and the confidence of Alta McDonaid that the Major will clip some seconds from Lou Dillon's great time may not be misplaced.

Harper Logan, of Grand Rapids, announces that he will give a month's programme of running races at his running track at Tonawanda, N. Y. which he recently leased for two seasons. The races will begin October ist and last the entire month. Prospects point to a big field of entries. Two car loads of horses have been entered from Grand Rapids, two from Newport, Ky, and one from Lima, Ohlo. Over two hundred entries in all are expected. The track has not been used for five years, but is in good en used for five years, but is in goo

Since Lou Dillon, some days ago, broke e record of Maud S., made to a high Since Both Dillon, and a be a high sulky, there have been many inquiries as to the performances years ago of this old turf idol, Maud S. It has been twenty-two years this summer since she appeared on the old Homewood track in Pittsburg and electrified the trotting world by making the trotting record of 2:10½. She was then sevon years old. Later Maud S. made new records. Here are some of her best performances:

At four years old she trotted a mile over Chester Park, Cincinnati, half-mile track in 2:23 3-4, and a few days later over a mile track in 2:37 1-2. At skx years she started at Chicago, July 24th, in a match against Trinket, and distanced her in 2:31-2.

This was then the record for a heat in a race against other horses. At Buffalo, August 4th, she was driven to lose one heat, it being the only heat she ever lost. She yion the fourth heat in 2:16 1-2, which was the record for a fourth heat. At Rochester the following week she trotted her first exhibition mile against time and took a record of 2:11 3-4. At Chicago she closed the season in an exhibition against time and lowered her record to 2:10 2-4. At Providence, August 1st, Jay Eye See trotted in 2:10 and headed the world's 2:10 trotting list. On the following day at Cleveland, Claud S. trotted in 2:00 3-4, and once more was queen of the trotters. Later in the season, at Lexington, she trotted in 2:00 1-4, high closed her campaign for the year, At Cleveland, July 28, 1885, she was started to beat 2:09 1-4, and won, trotting the mile in 2:03 3-4.

Trainer "Pete" Wimmer has decided to winter the horses of Captain Brown at Sheepshead Bay.
